

American Constitutionalism: Intersections in Criminology, Law and Society

A conversation with UCI Chancellor
Howard Gillman

Date: February 8th, 2016

Time: 12:00 pm

Location: SBSG 1517

How does American constitutionalism shape and address social issues such as solitary confinement, immigration policy, civil rights legislation, and health inequalities? Please join us for an informal panel conversation featuring UCI Chancellor Howard Gillman, whose scholarship on American constitutionalism will anchor an exploration of this question. The panel conversation will showcase faculty research in the Department of Criminology, Law and Society, including presentations by faculty members Susan Bibler Coutin, Sora Han, Keramet Reiter and Bryan Sykes. All are invited to attend and participate during the Q&A. Readings will be circulated in advance and lunch will be served.

Please RSVP by February 4th, 2016 by visiting:
<http://cls.soceco.uci.edu/rsvpAmericanConstitutionalismEvent>