The Department of Chicano/Latino Studies; Center for the Study of Democracy; Center on Law, Equality and Race, School of Law; Department of Criminology, Law and Society; and the Humanities Collective at UCI present

Erik Camayd-Freixas, Ph.D.
Professor of Spanish & Director of Translation & Interpretation Program, Florida International University

"Lessons from the Postville Raid"

Tuesday, February 25, 2014
1:00pm - 3:00pm
Humanities Gateway, Room 1030

In his new book, US Immigration Reform and Its Global Impact, which has been nominated for the Pulitzer Prize in History, Camayd-Freixas provides an insider’s view of US immigration enforcement and detention, unraveling the post-9/11 national security agenda that led to the devastating Postville Raid of 2008 and its global ramifications. The incisive historical analysis unveils the hidden ideologies within immigration policy—uncovering forms of labor, demographic, and electoral control. Rich eyewitness accounts and voices from across the political spectrum paint a vivid picture of labor migration in the era of globalization. Camayd-Freixas employs theories of human mobility in terms of migration spheres to convey practical and historical lessons, illuminating a much-needed roadmap for enlightened immigration reform.

For further information, please contact Rubén Rumbaut, rrumbaut@uci.edu